re revision of Florida law is it is:

I am sick + tired of pandering to immigrants, legal or otherwise who want to change laws to suit themselves. When they come to this country, they must learn English for career use AT LEAST. What they speak at home is personal.

Further, I am totally against immigrants taking tests in Spanish for driving purposes, or other purposes. I'm not against Spanish for this, I'm equally for other nationalities respecting our laws. This Reinaldo Torres says "Why do I need to speak Spanish when I took + passed the drivers exam in Spanish?" Indeed he was not the one who helped make these laws so of course his lawyer (too many of them) jumps on the band wagon.

I've written to my legislators many times re immigration, letting in unauthorized + looking the other way. I do not approve of aliens getting free medical care, housing assistance, food etc. before our own citizens do. I know there are many who are U.S. born + working hard who can't get medical aid free, taxi to + from same - why should foreigners get preference? NO NO.

As far as free speech is concerned, it's about time our leaders listened to US of U.S.A. The Constitution is being bent to aliens + immigrants desires.

As far as the law being vague + arbitrary, I say let it be + in future, not too distant, instead of revising, yes revise but make it mandatory that drivers learn English well, not Spanish well - After all this is the UNITED STATES. What are our leaders afraid of?

This has nothing to do w/ above but I'll say it: I do not believe in Affirmative Action. The pendulum has swung around the other way many years ago

Sincerely,
Julie West / registered voter
