

The cost benefit ratio does not justify the proposed change. Especially in light of the added benefit and the much higher cost benefit ratio of the utilization of rear facing seats. In my years of flying Southwest Airlines, I have not noticed the rear facing seats being filled less than forward facing.