

Dear Sir:

I currently am opposed to any regulations that impede or delay me further in the implementation of flying duties without providing the implied security.

General aviation has never been the problem in terrorist attacks and there is no evidence to suggest that there will be.

Further regulatory action is neither indicated nor needed.

Profiling would be of far greater use than my having picture I.D.