

We are very frustrated/angry with the continuous train horns we are hearing in Willoughby. We have 5 train crossings and the horns blow 5 times or one continuous toot for up to one minute. My wife is bed ridden and a light sleeper. She is taking sleeping pills but it does not help. I heard a proposal for "local horns" that would alert those at the intersection but not the whole community in a 5 mile radius! I think this would be a better solution than where we are today.
