

We would like the FAA to address the constant bombardment of low flying planes (less than 150 ft) over a 5 mile area to the Airport as well as the constant noise levels of the reverse of engines of the jets.

This noise starting at 5am and every few seconds until 1 am is harming our quality of life.

The cutting of the trees around BMA Hyannis has allowed the low flying aircraft to be dangerously close to school, hospitals and churches as well as the densely populated region.
