

I am 20 years old and have been waiting for three years for the chance to drive OTR. I am limited to instate driving only. I can't find employment to drive any thing besides a bob truck in my area. It is frustrating and difficult to wait three years after high school to begin a career you can only dream of. I will probably be 21 by the time this new program happens if it does. I think we under 21 cd1 holders should have more options and a program like the one proposed. I feel like my hands are tied I,m 20 with a class A CDL and a perfect driving record and can't do what I DREAM of. I hope my suggestion helps. Thanks Johnny Reed
