

I cannot believe the DOT is considering allowing 18 year old to drive BIG RIGS. It is a fact that truck drivers under 30 are in over 50% of accidents. What kind of accident rate do you think will there be with 18 year olds who have very little driving experience, driving big rigs down the highway? If this is passed we the public can only assume someone got paid under the table by a lobbyist from the truck companies.