

I am adamantly against 18-21 year-olds driving big-rigs, whether it be inter or intra state. The poor driving history of this age group is the reason. Unfortunatly, they do not possess the maturity and experience needed to responsibly handle this type job. For the safety of everyone on the road, a big-rig driver's age should be a minimum of 22.