The Faa has tried to sandbag the general Aviation community again.. With no thought as to consequences or hardship for the aviaition related businesses and enthusiasts. If improvements to existing designs by evolution and practical experience, subject to testing and OK's by the existing rules, is suddenly wiped out it certainly smacks of Big Brother knows whats bwest, no matter what. It is hard enough to cope with all of the overlapping regulations and pieces of decisions that have been made over the years by bureaucrats that only have a job with no real interest or concern for the real aviation comuunity.

Thank you
