This is a step backwards!

I am a lic pilot since 1964 and consider this NPRM uncalled for, unwarranted, and much to wide in it's scope and coverage... At the very least, all General Aviation planes and rotor wings NOW having a certificate number should be exempted...

As for application to "re-works" of heavy aircraft, this narrow area is most likly a proper place for such rule making...

Please append all AOPA comments to this letter and consider them as fully a part thereof.
