

before more safety requirements are put on cars, let us examine the drivers of the vehicles first. I am tired of paying for other people's stupidity, 66 dollars extra for the car to monitor tire pressure, because the everyday user is too lazy to do it himself. Let us raise the privilege of driving to a higher cost. Before a license is issued you must have a 10000 dollar bond, and pass very strict tests, and if violate the law from which an accident occurs you lose your license for life. mzerach@hotmail.com
