

If FAR 145.109 paragraph (b) is published the way it is written now (letting the standard for measuring and testing up to each individual Inspector) I believe we will loose our baseline for measurement that is traceable to NIST. I believe it is a huge mistake not to have measuring devices traceable to a common standard that everyone can agree upon.