

The value and benefits of positive operational control of these flights can be exemplified in the recent crash of the popular R&B singer in the Bahamas. A licensed Dispatcher sharing joint responsibility for release of the flight could have certainly identified and rectified the 'alleged' weight infraction(S).
The traveling public has a right to the best level of safety.