

People with diabetes shouldn't be automatically discriminated against just because they have diabetes. People with diabetes who are applying for commercial driver's licenses should undergo individual health and driving record assessments rather than being unfairly denied a job for which they are qualified. I am sure there are many commercial drivers on the streets today who if simialalry screened would have their licenses revoked. As I understand the "Three Year Rule" policy it sounds like a grandfather clause which will prevent new diabetic CDL candidates with excellent driving and diabetes control records from getting jobs for which they are qualified. Lets allow the best people to get the jobs they desire without mindless restrictions.
