

I for one am in total agreement with the third set of complaints you have received, the use of 4 headlights. They actually have a use in the country, but using them for city driving is completely unnecessary and extremely rude. When someone gets behind me with 4 headlights, especially during rush hour, my only recourse is to slow down, making the vehicle pass me, because I am completely unable to use my rearview mirror or side mirrors to see behind me, thus making it unsafe for me to do anything except go straight ahead.
