

I concur with the other comments that head mounted lights have become too bright. We need to lower them to get them out of the mirrors of small cars. We need to get rid of the fog lights that almost no one knows to turn off when they don't need them. The HID lights on the expensive cars need to be eliminated. Too much light ruins a person's night vision and makes him an unsafe driver.