

Am more than pleased that the NHTSA is considerring the problem of the high intensity lights as well as the Placement and direction of lights on trucks and SUVs. They can be near blinding adn certainly diminish the ability to see pedestrian or cyclists. The same is true when they are behind. Similar to being in a lighted room looking into the dark. It is especially debilitating for persons with light sensitivity.