

I am a professional security consultant, US citizen, veteran and former law enforcement professional with 30 years of experience. Many of my colleagues fly all over the US on business on a weekly basis. We would gladly provide whatever assistance a member of the flight crew or cabin crew needed to insure the integrity of a flight. My suggestion would include identifying professionals who are on board flights and seek their direct assistance if needed. Most will gladly help or just provide another set of eyes. There are tremendous resources available on a volunteer basis, if you will seek it out.

Thank You
