

A captain's right to defend his ship is one of the oldest principals of law known to man. The air crew of every US aircarrier should have the right to fly armed. The air crew would know how and when to use lethal force for the safety of all on board.

I am a 51 year old commercial pilot and holder of an instrument and mutiengine certificate