

I think this proposal will make aircraft operator save fuel and time, but I'm not really sure about airplane safety. I know about TACS II and auto pilot system. As a current situation, we are having enough problem about operational mistakes. By increasing the traffic in certain range of altitude in that airspace, I'm not sure if it will increase the chance of accident.