

The last time I looked, this is still the United States of America. I presume we still have the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution. Anyone accused of a violation of law, is entitled to due process of law. The Government must present evidence of a violation of that law. This NPRM is in violation of the Constitution.