

I run a neighborhood Flight Sim Business. Most of the pilots using my SIM walk away better pilots. The equipment is not the multi million dollar SIM I have been subjected to in my airline training but is worth a million for its ability to aid in pilot training. There is no expense of fuel, the cost is affordable $36/hr, and the training is great. I remember the the days of chair flying to improve my skills! Which is better? refering to FAA-2002-12461-12
