

Comments regarding Docket FAA-2001-8690-90
Benjamin A. Rolfe, an individual member of general aviation.

"The advisory group is comprised of a balanced group of representatives of general aviation, commercial air tour operations, environmental concerns, and Native American tribes."

It does not appear that this is statement is satisfied: there is 1 representative from a general aviation organization which also represents commercial operations (AOPA); three representatives form the air tour industry; three representing environmental concerns; two representing Native American Tribes.

The General Aviation community is under represented. To achieve "well balanced" additional representation from general aviation is required. GA operators have been negatively impacted by restrictions to national park over flights.
