

As a professional airline pilot, 42 years of age, I am in Full Support of new, unbiased, scientific studies which would investigate the validity of revising the mandatory Age 60 retirement rule for FAR Part 121 Air Carrier pilots. With the advances in medicine, nutrition, and health which have been made in the last 40-50 years, there is no reason why individuals who are able to pass an FAA Class I physical exam should be arbitrarily forced to retire from their careers. Many nations around the world have extended their retirement age for pilots beyond 60 based on the evidence, and it is high time we did the same thing in this country! Thank You.
