

Please do not do this. The aviation community is struggling enough as it is at this point in history. You are doing more harm than good. Putting small operators out of business undermines the roots of aviation and eliminates the spawning grounds of future airline pilots. Small aircraft are not threats to national security and need to stop being referred to as such. As a struggling pilot, I am totally against this action and request that it not be adapted.