

I strongly encourage an ammendment to the existing regulation in order to allow flight attendants to step off the aircraft with in a reasonable distance from the main cabin door. I firmly believe this would enhance a flight attendant's ability to deal with emergency situations by: #1 allowing him/her to use a jetway phone to call for assistance wether it is for medical, security, or anything that arises #2 giving more flexibility to allow him/her to step off to help in emergency situations since, they are the ones that are trained #3 giving them the ability to step off in order to prevent accidents/mishaps that may be about to happen
