

As a user of oxygen and also a person that has to travel, I certainly hope that the airlines will adopt a proposal that will prevent those of us that have to use oxygen from having to pay extra just to be able to breathe. If this proposal can be adapted so that we do not also have to carry lots of batteries etc. when flying, then it could be a God send to many of us.