

As a home care practitioner for over 20 years, I applaud the FAA for considering this proposal. The need is tremendous and the numbers are many. I surmise that more than one unit would need to be placed on board as many folks with lung disease (COPD) travel about. I wonder how that number will be determined. Another unit other than Airsep has entered the market and that is the one manufactured by Inogen.