

Oxygen deprived travellers, should be allowed to have the flexibility to choose and use effective oxygen generation systems. Because of airline rules and costs, I can only travel by car ---sometimes taking 3-5 days rather than a more efficient 3-5 hours. I am seriously considering an Inogen One, and find that it is not under consideration. I would like to request that this product be included in your deliberations. Thank you for your time and consideration....Paul F Dougher
