

people requiring oxygen all the time, have had enough lives...I think airlines should be required to either supply it, or allow these people to bring their own. To reject this, it seems like it is against their constitutional rights..we should be doing everything we can to make their lives easier. airlines supply wheelchairs, and ramps for the handicapped,why is someone on oxygen users be treated any differently...it is also a handicap.