

I totally agree with your efforts to identify foreign flight training students. Please try to keep the burden on the students while minimizing the burden to the flight instructors/schools. One suggestion is to have a form to be filled out by the student to which can be attached the necessary photo and other data. Also, why not use two photos, the first provided by the student as an "initial" photo, and the second provided later as an "official" photo by the the AME along with the associated biometric data to be included on the newly designed pilot certificate.
