

I am an independant flight instructor who offers specialized instruction to pilots that I already have a long history with. In y opinion this proposal, as written, will create an undue burden on all instructors and will do little provide additional security. If enacted, this proposal will be one more nail i the coffin of general aviation in this country and will, in the long run, cost the economy billions. Light aircraft DO NOT pose a significant threat to people or property. What about a semi trailer? They are more numerous, easier to obtain, easier to operate and could do more damage by far yet there is no ridiculous legislation pending that would affect the trucking industry.
