

I am a member of AOPA and a private pilot and very much oppose to the new ruling. This type of constraint does not provide any type of support against terrorism. This drives the cost of general aviation and puts additional cost on all GA pilots. If the TSA wants to control foreign student pilots then write a document that only affects the application process. Putting the burden on GA flight instructors and small flying business schools is not the right approach or is it far. The problem to me lies in the immigration not being able to screen aliens coming into this country and they are the agency responsible for controlling where and what these individuals are doing. Thank you for your time.
