

The green card holders (permanent resident citizens) should be exempted as US citizens for the new alien flight training rule. I live in this place where I call it home. I love my home, pay taxes, do my duty and get my pilot certificate. I don't think doing so will improve the security much. Please just leave us and flight instructors alone.

US government has all green card holders information (as well as other legal aliens visitors'), including my finger prints, in many government computer systems -- FAA, IRS, INS, TSA, DMV...etc. I have proof that TSA already have my information in computer that when I re-entered US last time -- I was asked by custom service to confirm that I am a pilot. (sounded like I am a criminal). It should be very obvious to identify who is the bad guy by using these information in hand. Don't let the flight instructors to take the responsibility. They are not detectives.

I am sure if a terrorist alien some how got into the US, the last thing s/he will do is to take the lengthy flight training. There are already A LOT OF ATTENTION PAID BY the GA and flight training system, including the AOPA Airport Watch and FAA certification issuing process. A terrorist will do the damage more easily by other ways rather than by piloting a plane.
