

This regulating will impose additional cost to an already over regulated industry. There should be regulation strickly for over the road drivers that do not infringe on the driver who only drive an eight hour day and is self employed. It is difficult enough to make a living with high fuel costs, insurance costs and additional paper required by the government.